JUDGE DAVIS ON COMPROMISES.

The Custom House Committee again met vesterday forming at the Astor House and had another long Much of the time was, however, as usual, vasted in barren inquiries as to opinion and general report, while Senator Howe distinguished self by his customary moral and theological discus-sions with the witnesses. The real business of the ommittee-the collection of the facts about the buses in the Custom House-meanwhile makes but

H. A. Garrison, Mr. Stewart's carman, was the drst witness, and was examined in reference to the rates of storage &c., at Leet & Stocking's store, which, he said, ranged from $1 to $2 50 a package. His other testimony, however, was of little import-

The next witness was James Elliott, who, having been sworn, said:-Have lived in the city twentythree years: work in a United States warehouse for the weighmaster, Mr. Thompson; the British bark 48; she had 600 tons of pig tron, soda ash and other cargo; I saw 100 casks of bleaching powder taken off; the casks were not weighed, but the British weights were just called off from the casks and cen as the real weight: I was there all day, and so am sure that the casks were not weighed; I have myself paid one dollar a week to Mr. Baldwin to the the Harpor Master to get ships into our district; the money was paid for the "Custom House tchet;" "hatchet" means bribe; last campaign I and all the other men paid five dollars each for the expenses of the election; william Haw, Jr., was candidate for Senator, and I wanted him elected and did not grudge the money; we were paid by the hour-forty cents per hour; this fallure to weigh occurred on the 22d of December last; the assessment or $1 to get ships for us ultimately reached the hands of the Harbor from twenty to sixty pounds in the weight of a cask of bleaching powder between English and Amerian weights; on the night of the primaries Mr. Thompson, our chief, took us all up to the meeting. to preserve the peace, because the boys in the Twenty-first district are pretty high; our men were all armed with clubs; many of the men were not resiof the district; there was a strong opposition, but our side won, as the others opposition, but our side won, as the others were frightened and saw there was no shance and sat down; they afterwards put in a protest; if a man refused to pay these political assessments he could not yet work; he would have to stand on the corner and do nothing, as happened to me twice when I refused to pay the $1 a week; if was one of the four laborers with Mr. Thompson; there was another man, Mr. Baldwin, who managed the scales; when I reproached Baldwin for passing the soda ash he said, "41% all in the family—it will all come out in the washing;" all the pasks, except a few that were to be coopered, were sent away without weighing; Mr. Thompson made as arrangement with the City Weigher, Mr. Doyle, by which one weighing did for both, Mr. Doyle paying him half of the wages claimed from the city; we did not get any of the money, I know; we did not get any of the money, I know; we did not get any of the money, I know; we did not get any of the money, I know; we did not get any of the money, I know; we did not get any of the money, I know; we did not get any of the money, I know; with the Ring and was as bad as the rest of them; after they refused me work, firece weeks ago, I called the attention of the United States inspector to the way the casks of soda ash were being carted away without weighing; Mr. Thompson then came, and said I was a bad man, and threatened to punch me if I did not go off the dock, and began to take his boat off: kept mine on, as I thought I could get away with him even with my coat on, and began to she have a so muon confusion that it didn't; at the time I had the fass with Mr. Thompson I had been out of work about a week.

William H. Proctor sworn—Have been working in the Twelfth district, weighning; Mr. Thompson is the weigher in that district, it know of weighable yoods being imported and sent of without being weighed; on the 22d December some casks were thus sont away; those casks were part of the cargo of the oark Vesta; it is not an unfrequent practice to weigh a few casks and estim were frightened and saw there was goods being imported and sent off without being weighed; on the 22d December some casks were thus sont away; those casks were part of the cargo of the cark Vesta; it is not an unfrequent practice to weight a few casks and estimate the average of the rest; an assessment of the dollars was once demanded of me for election purposes; I only paid two dollars and fifty cents; there was another assessment of one dollar to bring weighing into Mr. Thompson's district; it was claimed that that money went to the Harbor Master; these acts of passing goods without weighing, or of averaging their weight, were by no means rare; Mr. Thompson mixed actively in politics; I know that there were a great many strangers at the primary in the Twenty-first district; I don't know whether Thompson took them there; they were employed on the two piers under Thompson's care; they voted for fhompson's candidate, who was elected; I have seen the weight of the city weighers as keen by the United States weighers; it was usual for only one weighing to be made.

Patrick Callanan sworn—have lived in this city twenty-two years; was employed by Mr. Thompson, United States weigher; am ramhar with the manner in which he does his weighing; was not on the nock when the Vesta casks were unloaded; we have men there who do not work, but get pay all the same, and so goods have to be "run off" in this way to prevent the district running into debt; the labor they save by not weighing would be $20 for ten hours for a gang of five men; have paid $1 a week to help to get ships; Mr. Baldwin said no would get up a "hatchet," and then we would buy a ship from the harbor Master; Mr. Thompson knew about it, because he spoke to us about it, and warned us not to say anything about it; this was when another weigher charged him with having brought suites to his docks by bribes; Mr. Thompson, play cards there, while we stand out in the cold; Thompson displaced me for a man who was a l'ammany spun has, i believe, been weigher for about a year.

on his authority to the mercantile community of New York that no special agent of the Treasury had power to make settlements, or offer them, in cases contested with the government.

Senator Bayand then said:—A number of cases have been threatened into paying considerable sums to Treasury agents. As you say there is a record in all cases of settlements made, what would you think of cases where money has thus been received without any record appearing to your office? A. I should say there cord appearing to your office? A. I should say that a crime had been commuted which ought to be punished by the government.

the motion made by the Ocean National Sank to stay the sale of its property under execution issued to the Sheriff, was vesterday again before Judge Barbour, of the Superior Court.

Mr. RUPUZ ANDREWS, on behalf of the executor of the estate of the late James B. Taylor, asked a further postponement, as on account of fliness he had been unable to prepare the proper papers. No de-nial, he urged, had been made that the property and that the bank was perfectly secured. The lease, which was sold by the Sneriff without advertising. was for $6,500 a year, and Mr. Taylor's estate was security for its payment. Mr. Peter B. Sweeny had sent $25,000 from Canada to Mr. Bradley to pay his one-fifth of the judgment. An effort had been one-into of the judgment. An effort had been made to make a settlement, and this was the reason they had not moved earlier. If time was showed them he could give assurance of the payment of the entire indebtedness to the bank. If Mr. Fancher would say that he thought they would lose a dollar by the postponement of the case he would withdraw his motion.

Mr. FANCHER said that, as to the lease, it could not be assigned without the landlord first consenting.

as to the value of the property, the Sheriff was present and would state that, after an examination of the property, he did not think the levy covered the judgment. Nothing had been said to him, as counsel, or to the plaintiff, about paying him. If the property was worth three limes what it brought he wondered why these astute gentlemen did not

BUY IT IN.
After the advertising that had been made there After the advertising that had been made there was no reason for postponing the sale.

Mr. LAWRENGS urged that they were in a representative capacity, and could not, though their estate was large, readily raise money. It so much was done to get bidders here from Chicago and Washington he wanted to know how it happened that only two bids were made, and that by New York gentlemen. He insisted that no effort had been made to protect the interests of the parties. No catalogue was made of the property to be soid, and no advertisement published of the lease. It seemed to them that an effort was made to squeeze out Mr. Taylor's estate and build up a new company on the same ground. He asked time to show these facts by addidavits, and that the sale was so conducted as to deter the bidders, and that it was apparently in the interests of one whom the late Common Gouncil had in its expiring moments appointed public Printer.

The Lugger suggested that andulting all this parently in the interests of one whom the late Common Gouncil had in its expiring moments appointed Public Printer.

The Judge suggested that, admitting all this, there was no ground for the order asked for. The estate of Mr. Taylor was not a party to the suit. They should have flied their bill in equity and obtained a receiver. The petitioner had no standing in Court. It was a matter of discretion with the Sherif whether it was for the best interest of the debtor to seit the property in bulk or in parceis.

Mr. CLINTON, representing the granddaughter of Mr. Taylor, claimed that neither the heirs nor the executors had any power to raise money. The practical inquiry was ins:—The New York Printing Company owed inc Taylor estate hundreds of thousands of collars. They nad received

Two MILLIONS FROM THE CITY and had made no dividends to the estate. Now, when it was powerless, they permitted the property to be sacrificed so as to form

A NEW RING.

The officers abscond, no defence had been made, and, under all the circumstances, he did not think it was asking too much to have the delay solicited granted.

The Judge said that he did not see what right

The Judge said that he did not see what right The JUDGE said that he did not see what right they had in Court.

Mr. Pancherstated that it was perfectly clear what the real purpose of the motion was, and that this purpose was to commence a suit and get a receiver appointed, so as to deprive the plaintiffs of their rights in the premises. They had been told that there were no dobts of the company, and it now appeared that a large sum was owing to the Taylor estate, and he had heard of another large siebt beside this. As His Honor suggested, they had no standing in Court. The proper way, if they desired any relief, was to file a bill in equity, and on that apply for an injunction or the appointment of a receiver, which the Court would only grant on proper security.

ceiver, which the court would only grant on proper security.

The JUDGE said that altogether it was an extraordinary case, and in view of all the facis, and as neither party could be harmed by a short delay, he would posipone the matter till Saturday; meantime he would exact $5,000 bonds from the potitioner to secure the plaintiff against any loss. He gave till to-day to furnish this bond.

A VILLANOUS OUTRAGE.

An Old Lady Robbed of $1,150-The Robber Places a Pisiol to Her Head and Purcatens to Blow Her Brains Out. About seven years ago Mrs. Margaret Kirk came to this country from Ireland, bringing with her about five hundred dollars in English gold. Immeafter converting it into greenbacks, in a savings bank, and ever since then has been adding to it little by little until the whole amounted to about thirteen hundred dollars. Some three months ago her son, whom she had let in the Old Country, wishing to come here, wrote his mother for funds, whereupon the old lady drew from the bank the whole amount of her deposit and sent him $100. Knowing that Mrs. Kirk had withdrawn her money, James Figrity, an old acquaintance of hers, determined to become the possessor of it, by stratagem if he that Mrs. Kirk had withdrawn her money, James Flarity, an old acquaintance of hers, determined to become the possessor of it, by stratagem if he could, by force if ne must. Accordingly he on Monday night went to Mrs. Kirk's house, No. 74 Roose yet street, and invited her, her daughter and ner son—the latter having recently arrived—to spend the evening at his house, which is 113 Cliff street. The party accepted his livitation, and together they all set out, Flarity accompanying Mrs. Kirk, while the son and daughter of the latter waiked together some distance ancad.

ARRIVING AT FLARITY'S FLACE they had a joily good time and rem uned about an nour, when the young folks urged their mother to go home. The old lady acceded to their wish, and as they were about leaving the house her son asked her for twenty-five cents with which to get some tobacco while on the way home. She took out her purse and gave him the required amount, after which, and in the presence of her daughter, her son and old Flarity, counted over the $1,150 which the purse contained, besides some little change. The sight of so much money seemed to set the last named individual wild with dilight, and as his eyes gloated over it he determined to make a desperato effort for its possession. He told the son and daughter to start on, that he would see their mother and her escort coming down after them. The door swing to after them and they went on up the street in the direction of the nouse, little mindful of the dastardly outrage which was being perpetirated on their aged mother.

It seems that as soon as the door at the foot of the stairs closed on the young folks Flarity, who was coming down behind Mrs. Kirk, seized hold of the pocket of her which contained the money and writh a sharp kulfe ripped it out as quick as thought. The old lady felt him pulling at her dress, and curing round felt for the pocket only to discover that it was gone, together with her lifelong earnings—the last cent she had in the world. She opened her not a moment or two. The lapi

THE NEW LOAN,
Washington advices state that the offer of the new London Syndicate has been laid before the Secretary of the Treasury, who entertains it favorably. The only obstacle to the immediate acceptance of the proposal is the condition that the interest shall be made payable in Europe, to sanction which Mr. Boutwell will ask a Congressional amendment of the Funding act. It was rumored, further, that the proposals embraced a tender for the $700,000,000 of four per cents.

A cable despatch announces the negotiation in London of the new loan of the District of Columbia. amounting to $4,000,000, which was placed at 87 %, equivalent in the United States to about 95. These ids have been created for the internal improvement of the city of Washington under the new Ter-ritorial government, whose plans contemplate boulevards, parks and public buildings, after the manner of the chief cities of the country, with a view to rendering permanent the present site of the national capital.

MONEY STRINGENT. The money market had an easier look during much of the earlier portion of the day, and while 7 per cent coin was the general rate among the stock houses a good many borrowers supplied their wants at 7 per cent currency. After two o'clock there was a recurrence to stringency, and borrowers readily paid 7, coin, and later, 1-32 and interest, and 1-16 "flat." The demand continued for nearly an hour after the usual time for making up accounts, the borrowers at 1-16 being those who had neglected to provide their funds early in the day, and were seeking accommodation after three o'clock. The continued scarcity of money naturally excites a great deal of remark, especially as on this the ninth day of the new year there should, under ordinary circumstances, be a return to the panks of the dividends and interest disbursed during the past week, and a consequent relaxation in the rate of call loans. Unless within the current week there be such a relaxation Wall street will begin to believe that the prophecies of a stringent money market pending the present poverty of the banks in legal tenders have not been rashly ventured.

Prime commercial paper is quoted 9 a 12 per cent discount. Foreign exchange was firm and higher, the leading bankers advancing sterling to 100% for sixty day and 110 for sight bills, but allowing a liberal brokerage on these rates. GOLD WEAK-109 % A 108%.

The gold market, in the absence of further effort to agitate a war with Spain, was dull and quiet transactions at 103%. The confirmation of the report that a formal proposal for $600,000,000 of the new loan had been sent to Washington and (supposed) sales of gold against the negotiation of the city of Washington loan induced an eventual decline to 108%. These were the only features of the market, the course of which is shown in the table:-10 A. M. 109 1:46 P. M. 108%

The prospect of refunding the several issues, old and new, of five-twenties, held forth in the negotia-tions now pending between the latest London Syndicate and the Treasury Department at Washington, has again operated against the maintenance of any premium over the par of gold upon the issues thus threatened with speedy redemption. Hence the five-twenties have been weak, not only in this market, but in London, where a further decline was recorded by today's cable quotations, the same influence operating undoubtedly in the foreign market as has offer to take the fresh instalment of the new loan. The decline in gold has also helped the downward movement in prices, The fol-lowing were the closing street quotations:-United States currency sixes, 115½ a 115½; do. sixes, 1881, registered, 114½ a 114½; do. do. STOCKS DULL AND IRREGULAR. The stock market was dull and strong in the forenoon and quiet and weak in the afternoon, the day's ousiness resulting in the closing of prices at about the opening figures after a fluctuation averaging barely one-half per cent, outside of Wabash, which kept a rise of one and a quarter per cent, and Erie, which submitted to a decline of one and a half per cent. The revival of the subject of the offer for $600,000,000 of the new loan stimulated the earlier strength of the market, but without infusing animation, the dulness not being readily explicable. The stringency in money at the close of panking hours excited a more normal induence than has been its wont of late, and prices receded enough to take away the improvement of the forenoon. After the steadiness which visited the market on its assumption of this new grade of prices Wabash suddenly ran up to 73%, but was countercalanced by Lake Shore, which fell to 90%. Un on Pacific and Northwest preferred were strong. and retained their improvement to the close. HIGHEST AND LOWEST PRICES.
